

53% of Maynilad water is lost; Manila Water, only 13%

By Arny R. Narso

AS THE WATER SITUATION in Metro Manila takes a turn for the worse, the public is left asking why water companies Manila Water Co. can provide a more stable water supply compared with its counterpart in the west zone, Maynilad Water Services Inc.

Officials from the water companies:

APRIL 13
Angat Watershed hits the critical 180 meters above sea level (masl). Normal level is 210 to 212 masl.

JULY 16
Water level hits record low of 151.53 masl despite the rains, interrupting water supply in Metro Manila.

A 134-kilometer tunnel carries water from the Umiray River in General Nakar, Nueva Ecija, to the Angat Dam.

2 Angat Dam
The Angat Dam stores up to about 800 million cubic meters of water. It supplies 87 percent of the water needs of Metro Manila.

3 La Mesa Dam
Located in Norzagaray, Bulacan, it can store up to 1.5 billion cubic meters of water from Angat and the Umiray River.

4 Novaliches Treatment Plant
Treatment Plant 1 and 2 produce an average of 2,250 million liters of water daily. They supply the west zone.

5 Balara Treatment Plant
The Balara Treatment Plant has a cost of about P1.2 billion and supplies the east zone.

Mikey takes oath but 'sikyu' case goes to SC

By Gil C. Cabanogian Jr. and Christine O. Arendano

IT WAS SURPRISING, but not late, but military lawmakers have not given up on their disqualification case against Ang Geling.

Sen. Franklin Drilon is also demanding the matter of the four election commissioners who voted to give a congressional seat to Arroyo, who took his oath as member of the House of Representatives.

Ang Geling, Pinoy lawyer Charlie Chua said Arroyo took his oath yesterday in Manila and that his papers are now with the House secretary general.

Alfonso Pico, Malabon, said he would file today an urgent motion in the Supreme Court to appeal the ruling of the Commission on Elections (Comelec) to allow Arroyo to represent Ang Geling, which claims to represent security guards, in the House of Representatives.

In its ruling, four election commissioners approved Arroyo's bid.

US prof rues SC misuse of his work vs 'sex slaves'

IT HURT PAGLAUMAN, that's how troubling for the American professor, but the taking out of context by the Supreme Court passages to justify the dismissal of separation demands from Japan by Filipino women used as sex slaves in the last war.

Ernest Grillo, who teaches international law at Syracuse University's College of Law, wrote in a US-based legal blog that he learned about the alleged plagiarism of his work from the supplemental motion for reconsideration filed on Monday in the high court.

The most troubling aspect of the court's justice system is that it implies that the prosecution against crimes against humanity, sexual slavery and torture are not just crimes against the victims, but also against the state.

Pinoy maid inherits P200M from boss

SINGAPORE—A devoted Filipino maid inherited $36 million (around P200 million) from her last employer after more than 20 years of service, a newspaper report said on Wednesday.

"I am the luckiest maid in Singapore, with or without the money," the 47-year-old single woman—identified only by the pseudonym "Cherlene"—told the Straits Times in an interview.

The maid, who arrived here in 1988, refused to be named in public for fear of possible threats to her life in the Philippines, where wealthy people have been kidnapped for ransom and some killed by their abductors.

The wealthy, including cash and a luxury apartment near the Orchard Road shopping belt, came from the estate of her employer Quack Koi Mee, a medical

2 more years of basic education? Not in Noynoy's term

By Philip C. Tulawa

THE NO. 1 ITEM on President Aquino's ambitious education reform agenda—that of adding two more years of basic education—may not be fully realized during his term, according to Education Secretary Dep. Armin FISC.

This is because the new administration is embarking on a general overhaul of the basic education curriculum—also elementary and high school—over the next two years.

The proposal to add two years to the basic education cycle will be carried by the service, as will the controversial teaching of sex education and the use of local languages as mediums of instruction, according to FISC.

With education reformers saying that the process of adding two more years to the basic education cycle will take five years, Mr. Aquino's proposed 12-year education cycle will only be realized in 2017, the first year of the next administration.

During the election campaign, Mr. Aquino promised a 10-year education reform agenda, the first item of which proposed "expanding basic education in this country from a dual 10-year cycle to a globally comparable 12 years before the end of the next administration (2016)."

FISC said the proposal to add two more years of basic education would still depend on the level of curriculum that emerges after the two-year review.

It may very well be that additional studies would result in a consensus that adding two more years to basic education might not be needed under the new curriculum.

The previous design of basic education's Presidential Task Force on Education, headed by the current Ateneo de Manila University president Fr. Benigno Sison SJ, suggested that two years should instead be added in senior college courses.

Lions rip Knights, grab NCAA lead

By James M. Papp

MANILA (PHILIPPINE DAILY INQUIRER) — The Lions ripped the Knights, 73-46, to grab the sole lead in the NCAA men's basketball tournament playoffs at the Rizal Sports Complex in Marikina.

Kevin Lucero and Benji Hernandez fueled the rally from their prep work on the Lions by 14 points, 34-16, but both coasted in a fourth straight victory that broke its leadership to win the last tiebreaker.

"I thought it's going to be close, but then they were so confident," said Benji Hernandez. "We gave them different looks and it paid off."

Lucero finished with a game-high 22 points while Hernandez added 15 markers, 18 rebounds and five assists for the Lions.

Facing rookie Rocky Acuña facing a tough start as he stepped a three-game streak with an 80-67 win of the last tiebreaker.

Facing 12 of his 14 points, 20 points from beyond the arc to lead the Bulldogs players in double figures.

"We wanted to play defense, basketball and control the tempo," said coach Lou Alano. "We have to be patient and wait for our chance to strike."

Adrian Cabaña shot 18 points and John Cabaña added 14 as the Chiefs shot the shot their 20th straight win.

Believe it or not, an all-dessert dinner

By Margo C. Enriquez
Contributor

TO A HEALTHY REP, A BAKED apple with fig filling and vegetable juice can make up a meal. But for Makati Sharang-Lu's executive pastry chef, Guillermo Ramirez, that serving can be elevated to haute cuisine and served as the main course.

The dessert, notably the last in a sometimes skipped course, takes the spotlight at Makati Sharang-Lu's first anniversary. Ramon has whipped up an all-dessert dinner, an occasion all from July 24-30. He infuses sweet elements into dishes that wouldn't normally see them as prominently and serving elements that implies that might not include them at all.

His concept from combine elements of hot and cold, sweet and salty and cream and dishes such as caramelized onions, milk jam and here and there and introduce unusual combinations such as chocolate and bananas. Like many of his sweet compositions, the dishes don't depend on sugar for their sweetness. Instead, he explores other options to enhance his delectable ingredients.

"It's something new, especially for people who have sweet. The growing food using the techniques of cuisine and doesn't," says Ramirez.

Amuse bouche

The amuse bouche is a round of milk jam, accompanied by an onion, a crunchy, soft pastry flavored with three kinds of pepper of various intensities. The dip goes with a milk jam, made from milk, sugar and vanilla pods, soaked into thick consistency.

The next course is a round of blood strawberries cooked in olive oil, pepper and sugar, topped with a cold soup of ice cream with caramelized onions. It goes with tomato slices, caramelized with olive oil and mushrooms, topped with a hint of vanilla, cinnamon and pepper and balsamic reduction. There here is rich protein source.

The most well-known is the fig and apple core serving, made from the classic

TOMATO core with balsamic reduction, an amuse bouche with black pepper and caramelized onions or cream.

Fig and apple 'tarte tartin,' avocado salsa with milk jam, asparagus in syrup—I'm presenting food using the techniques of cuisine and dessert.
